SEVENTH SUNDAY OF EASTER YEAR C

Today the seventh Sunday of Easter, we read from the 17th chapter of John's Gospel. This chapter of John's Gospel comes at the conclusion of Jesus' Farewell Discourse delivered to the disciples at the Last Supper. The whole of this chapter is a prayer of Jesus, commending himself to the Father and expressing his care and concern for his disciples. At the end of this prayer, Jesus and his disciples depart for the garden, and Jesus is arrested.

The first reading narrates the martyrdom of the first martyr, St. Stephen, after having provided a lengthy defence before the Sanhedrin. He had been falsely accused of speaking blasphemously against Moses and against God. The first reading exemplifies the martyrdom that accompanied the witnessing of those who believed in the teaching of the Apostles. Stephen persuasively and courageously defended the Christian faith before the Jewish court – the Sanhedrin. He was charged of blasphemy and was condemned to death by stoning.

The second reading also picks up on issues of justice as we have reached the end times. Jesus presents himself, through the angel, using the Greek letters of Alpha and Omega, thus presenting himself as the beginning and the end. But also to the present time, when it says, with such beauty: Let the one who thirsts come forward, and the one who wants it receive the gift of life-giving water. The gospel presents Jesus' last speech in the upper room as he makes his prayer to the Father. In Christian tradition this has been called the priestly prayer of Jesus. This is because he offers prayers on behalf of others as a priest would normally do. He prays not only for those who are with him in the upper room but also for those who will come to believe in his name which is ourselves today. The main prayer of Jesus is that we may be one.

In these days between Ascension and Pentecost, we must keep calling on the Spirit to come into our lives. If the Spirit is in us, so is Jesus and so is the Father. At the level of faith, we believe that it is so. Yet we have to convert our whole being to believe in this reality! We are one in Christ whether we agree with each other or not. We are one in Christ whether we like one another or not. To become a part of Christ is to become a part of the community; a part of the one.

Come, Lord Jesus! Come, Holy Spirit! May we be filled with God's grace this day and may our longing to understand and live the heavenly mysteries be deepened. Come, God of our ancestors! Transform us in the love of Jesus by the power of the Spirit. Amen.
